“ We fondly remember Jim as being the first person from Symphony Village that we really got to know. As our house was being built, we visited it daily and sat outside in our car. On his daily walks, Jim would stop and chat with us about the neighborhood and current events and always had a smile when he saw us. I think he enjoyed watching the progress being made on our house as much as we did. He was a really good man and will be missed in Symphony Village. Our deepest regrets go to his family. May you rest in peace. Betty and Jerry Rosensteel

“ I got to know Jim well from working on various projects at Symphony Village. In short order I realized Jim's skills and complete willingness and enthusiasm in taking on detailed problem and needs analyses. Everywhere I look around our clubhouse I see things Jim worked on defining and designing such as many aspects of the building expansion project. Even outside he was involved in studying and documenting our extensive village wide irrigation system. One day I mused about wanting to see more details in our Frequently Asked Questions section on our Symphony Village website. Before I was done talking Jim was off interviewing committee chairs, staff etc and revising the FAQ to make it more informative and useful. I told Jim, and many others, that he was my hero. Where would we be at SV without Jim's generous donations of his time and expertise.
