

Jane Oliver Menard

September 27, 1947 - June 21, 2021

Jane Oliver Menard was born in Washington DC on September 27, 1947, to Covey Thomas and Barbara Hauer Oliver. While growing up she lived in various places around the United States and spent time living in Colombia, Brazil, and Mexico.

Jane graduated from George Washington University with a degree in journalism. She then began a career as a newspaper journalist which brought her to Louisiana. While in Louisiana she met her former husband, Lloyd Menard Jr. After a career in Louisiana and Maryland she worked for the State of Louisiana until her retirement.

Jane died at her family home in Easton, Maryland on June 21, 2021. She is survived by her son, Covey, her daughter-in-law Nicole, her grandchildren Ella and Luke, her sisters Lucy Campbell, and Scotti Oliver, her brother Jeff Oliver, and her former step-sons, Randy and Royd Menard. She was preceded in death by her parents and her brother Woodlief Oliver.

Jane always had a love of music and art and pursued those passions whenever she could. She was known for her feisty attitude and unique outlook on life.

“ Hello, my name is Lauren Lasiter and I lived across the street from Jane. I was so shocked and saddened to hear of her passing. I would keep an eye on her cat from time to time. I had also tried to help when she moved away with the renovations to her house. If there is anything I can do please do not hesitate to knock on the yellow house across the street.

“ After losing touch with each other after our graduation from George Washington University Jane and I were able to reconnect in 2014. We would always get together when she came up from Baton Rouge to Easton and had a great time. We would meet in Annapolis for lunch/walking around town and one time took a boat trip on the Chesapeake Bay on a perfect weather day. She was a talented artist and writer and really enjoyed playing music. I was impressed with how many different instruments she could play. She could be stubborn at times but I really miss having her in my life.

My condolences to her son Covey and his family and to her brother Jeff and sisters Scotti and Lucy.
