“ Audrey was such a positive influence in my years growing up in Trappe. I remember her as a beautiful bride walking down the stairs at her family home. She was my 4H leader and taught sewing lessons in her home, she had a good laugh when my mother put surgical scissors in my first sewing basket. I even remember her puppy Madison. Her home was always spotless and her club meeting refreshments were delicious and she made it all seem effortless, laughing and smiling. She was a great role model for many 4H members just being true to who she was, I feel blessed to have known her growing up.

My visits with Audrey in recent weeks have made up for lost time, because, as so often is said, you never get to know your neighbor as well as friends distant. What an inspiration to this old priest - going forward, she had no fear of death. In fact, she celebrated the coming and going seasons of life outside her windows at Hospice as witness to her own life, of what she has received and given. Her spiritual resolve was such that we rarely spoke of death, but of the life granted to her. One day, I asked if she had been a teacher, to which she replied that she hoped that she had taught by her example in 4H lifelong, and as the guiding light of the Talbot Ag Center over 47 years. She also had a spry sense of humor, not so much as a story teller, but one who could laugh at the follies of the world she was about to leave. As I reflect on my many neighbors in life - in Fargo, Chicago, England, ministries in Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and Washington DC, Audrey is among the best. Now remains her husband Weber, and the nation's greatest Sycamore tree. I need to build that neighborliness more with him as my parting gift to her.
