“ We were so close growing up, but it did not start out that way. I remember on Maw Maw's front porch it was you, me Bobby, & Dawn playing and you wanted my metal sand bucket so we faught over it and you took it and hit me across my nose (I still have a scar). Aunt Shirley laid into you. I thought how mean you were. There's no way you were my cousin. You had to be tough growing up with all those brothers. When we grew older we laughed about it. You would spend the night just about every week-end and end up staying all week. Aunt Shirley would come down and we would beg her to let you stay longer. After high school we drifted apart. You had your life and I had mine. Aunt Shirley would keep mommy and myself in touch with what was going on in your life whenever she would stop in down Maw Maw's. I would think about you every June 11 and would wish you a Happy Birthday. It was just two days after mine. I wish I had taken the time to call or write. Your with your mom and dad in a better place where there is no more suffering, and someday I will see you again.

“ Words cannot express how I feel at the moment. While I know I was only in your life for a brief time, I know you loved me like one of your own. I will never forget you peeling my shrimp for me until I figured out how to do it on my own. I will miss our picking on one another. I know you will always be there watching over all of us. I want you to know that I will ALWAYS be there for Crystal and Cam. I love them with all my heart and soul, just as you do. I will miss you greatly.##imported-begin##Rob Crews##imported-end##

“ What can I say...
You were a wonderful mother. You were always there for me and made sure I had everything I ever needed. You are the one I could always lean on when things were tough and complicated. You made me into the person I am today. I love you so much and I am not sure how each day will be, but I know I have to be strong and take care of my lil guy... Your Handsome Man. He loves his Me-Me. I will always tell him about you and how much you love him. I love you Mom.##imported-begin##Crystal##imported-end##
