“ Although the younger kids and I could not travel to be with Dad/Grandpa to wish him a formal farewell, we certainly thought of him and the family during this his final days. I believe Dad knows this and would not have wanted me to be far away from my mother and grandmother during their trying times, and the kids got to see him at his best, at Aaron's wedding in October. That's the man who will be etched in our memories, not the one slipping away to the Golden Gates. He suffers no more and is happy that his family rejoiced and celebrated his life once he went to the other side. We love you, and your spirit will watch over us.##imported-begin##Suzanne L Boutcher##imported-end##
