“ Gabby, I will miss seeing your beautiful, sweet smile. It has been many years since you were in my classroom, but I will always remember your big heart and kind nature. I always enjoyed running in to you throughout the years and catching up. You will be missed. I am praying for your family and your sweet babies. xoxo

“ I only knew her when we were very young. Both 4 or 5 going to kindergarten and living in Davidsonville. She was my first friend and we shared a great lot of memories. They are the only memories I have of Maryland - she were the only thing I wanted to remember in my duration there. Her and I drifted apart once I moved to Texas in 2000. Hadn't spoken for 12 years, but last year we reconnected and got to catch up and be friends again. I learned about her children that she dearly loved and the life she was proudly leading. I can't say how thankful I am to have had those few months of getting to know her again before she was taken before her time. There were, and are, still so many things I wanted to say that can now only be translated into prayers. My condolences to her family and friends for going through this incredibly hard time. No words can mend emotions quite like time can. You will be eternally missed. Gabby Schools, I love you and will miss you greatly.
