“ I remember when we went to Cape Henlopen in Delaware with Uncle Guy, Grandma and Grandpa. There was one war lookout tower that I, Mom, Grandpa and Uncle Guy decided to climb. At a certain height, Mom couldn't handle it and Grandpa and Uncle Guy went the rest of the way, while I and Mom climbed down. By the time we were walking to the car, Uncle Guy and Grandpa reached the top. As we were walking, I could hear behind me, "Hey, Liam! Come and catch me! Weeeeeeee!!" I whipped around and saw Uncle Guy smiling wildly and waving at the top of the tower. I will miss his sickedly funny sense of humor. When I would e-mail him, he would give me something to laugh at. All of his e-mails to me included the word, "WEEEEEE!!" Thank you, Uncle Guy for being the one, outside of my parents, who understood me.
