The following is a poem written by Hilja P. Williams:

“With Warm Hands”

Let me look into your face and feel the features of your beauty.

Eyes that sparkle, lips that kiss, cheeks
with a rosy glow, hair with a curly flow, my fingers feeling all of this.

A thrill no one can explain

Enjoy! Delight! Sparkle! Sing! Rejoice!

For one sad day, these warm hands will turn cold and still, and cold will follow all through me and I will no longer be able to look, smile or kiss.

My heart has taken control and said,
“No more!”

So today, and as long as you can, touch, feel
And kiss while you may with warm hands.

Services will be private.

Memorial donations may be made to Cooper Union Alumni Fund, Cooper Square, New York, NY 10003-712.

Arrangements are by Fellows, Helfenbein & Newnam Funeral Home, P.A.,
