“ I worked with Jim around 1994 on the Apache program. I was in my early 20s, working for his British customer, he had decades more experience than me but he was always so patient and lovely to work with. We shared a lot of laughs too. Very fond memories of watching the Orioles with him and Ginny.

“ I came to know Mr. Green when visiting my mother, his neighbor. I'd go out to get the paper or the mail for my mother, and Mr. Green would sometimes be there walking Mitsy. While Mitsy struggled against the leash to shower me with undeserved yet undying affection, Mr. Green and I would have a conversation about almost anything. Once we got to talking about sports cars or classic cars or something like that, and he asked me if I'd like to see what was in his garage. Of course I said yes, even though I had no idea what he wanted to show me. Well, was I surprised to see that magnificent MG. Mr. Green told me the whole story and together we pored over that motorcar, inspecting its construction and function. I think Mitsy even went silent, which I'd never seen before.

Mr. Green very kindly helped my mother, as he was able. He (and Mitsy) became a happy part of the experience of visiting her. On our last visit, we (my wife and I) didn't see Mr. Green or any activity around the house. This gave us a bad feeling, and we are very saddened to find out today that Mr. Green had passed on.

I know with certainty that every time I visit my mother, I will look over and think about the kind man and his insanely happy dog, the conversations we had, and the little things he did for my mother.

My deepest condolences to the family.
