“ What a great picture of Buzzy!!! And he truly was one of those handsome Heinefield fellas. To know him was to love him. I remember him as being full of mischief. When he still lived in Rock Hall on Henry Avenue, I would go around there and spend the night with Cindy. We were the same age. And he would love to pinch. Especially under neath your arms where it is so tender and would get such a huge charge out of it. Dad did that stuff too so I guess it must have been in the genes. Over the years, I did not see him but he sent some comical emails to Jack and then Jack would forward them to me. What a great guy he was from my memories. The Heinefield clan does not see each other much but we are always together in our hearts thanks to that generation of Heinefields that has gone on before us. I'll see you again Buzzy only there you can no longer pinch.
