This is a day that brings back memories of a little boy that I first met when I became his babysitter along with his three brothers. I was just a young teenager and you were the oldest of the four. My helper with your younger siblings. So full of energy. Your Mom, Dad, You and your brothers became my home away from home. I spent summers with your Aunt Ella in Md and your family made me feel like I was one of their own. I regret not knowing you as a man. Carrying on for you is your legacy. I love you and thank you for so many find and often adventurous memories.
