“ Last Fall I met Jack when he was looking for his dentist appointment and showed up at the wrong building. I was leaving the Urology building on Idylwild and he was entering. In a crowd of people he singled me out to ask for directions. As I learned who he was looking for and he was a street away and running late for his appointment., I offered to drive him over in his car and my husband followed. Jack told me he was late for his appointment and I was afraid they wouldn't take him so I went in to explain why he was late. The people in the dentist office were very understanding and agreed to work him in. I waited for him and helped him fill out the paperwork. Then I drove him back to his home and suggested that he use their driving service. He deserved it after all the hard work he had put in. He was very interesting to talk with -- a very intelligent man and very kind. We are sorry that we didn't know him sooner. He talked with me about his son and daughter and his grandchildren. Our sympathies are with the family. Paul and Frances Daly, Denton, MD
