“ Mrs. Ringgold- let me first express my sympathy to you and your family. You provided unconditional love and care for your mother for many years. Caregiving is not a easy task, so you should be commended for enabling your mother to remain at home until her death. I remember you from attending some of our Caregiver's Support Group meetings- your strength, admiration and determination were evident then and obviously, you never lost those characteristics. May God be with you at this difficult time.

Sincerely,

Jane T. Anthony
