“ Lillian Catherine Brodsky, The older siblings came up with mom is a nurse. This was an amazing part of her life. She loved God, and love to spread the word. She taught Sunday School, to the younger children, Vacation Bible school, Wednesday night prayer meeting, and she was in the choir. If anyone needed anything she was the first to help. She would go with the Deacons to visit someone who came home from the hospital or who way elderly and sick. I wish everyone well.

“ Peaches When I hear that word, I immediately know who it is, as we all do. We butted heads, as all Mother-in-law to son-in-law do, but respect was never lost between us and we talked, even when mad. My best experience is eating dinner on Sunday years ago when we first met. She made the best Stuffed Cabbage rolls, can still taste them.

“ I will always remember Grandma as being a striking example of a strong woman. She spent more than half of her life living independently, raising a family and cultivating a career. It was evident how much she loved her children and the sacrifices she made for them. I wasn't sure if she was going to remember me the last time I saw her, but as Grandma always did, she hugged me tight and said, "Hi, Stacey!" As a woman who loved God, I pray that she rests peacefully.

“ Lillian Catherine Antonia Zeiba Brodsky, better know as Peaches to friends and family. When father died in 1966, mother was left with five of seven children at home. She dug her heels in and decided she wanted to become a nurse. She accomplished this by working hard and taking odd jobs. I remember her chasing after me with an orange in one hand and a needle in the other. I would not let her practice on me. This was a priceless moment, it still makes me laugh. Mom save some chocolate for me.

“ I loved sitting with Peaches each week and praying, talking about the old days and doing puzzles. She was a highlight of my day and I could just walk down the street and be with her. Knowing that I will be near her when we are all with Jesus. Thank you Peaches for a wonderful time in my life. Rest now!
