“ I've known Lori since she was a little girl of the age of seven. I always thought of her and her siblings as my younger siblings. I was the big sister. We use to do everything together, and one day our lives changed. Sad and heartbroken I was no longer in they're life.

Many years passed, we grew into adults and started our own families. I never forgot them, and often wondered what was they're life like, where are they? Then, not long ago Lori found me on facebook. We spent weeks talking, hours at a time, filling in all the blanks. My heart melted! I even got to meet Will and Sarah through facetime. I got to see her house, her cave, it felt like we we're sisters again! We talked, we laughed, we cried, we made plans. But, just like that, a beautiful soul taken home to soon. I just said hello to her and she was gone, without a good-by. But in our talks, I did get to tell Lori I loved her. Once again, we are apart, but I know someday I will see her again, and we will never have to say goodbye! 💜 I am Blessed to have had Lori be a part of my life.

“What do I say? No matter what I say, I'll be leaving so much more out!

My sister? The one I shared a room with during my childhood. The one who I depended on when going to high school because she was a year older. The one who always smiled during the times of trial. The one I shared my fears and hopes with, my sister! The one I looked up to. The one who encouraged me to smile in the rough waves of life! The one whom I missed when she lived so far away!

Lori suffered with health problems and trials her entire life. I don't believe anyone but God understood her suffering. When she lost her husband at 38 my heart broke for her, their love for each other are what books are written about!

She has many trophies that signal her perseverance. Three beautiful children who sparkle in a way that show she ran her race with strength and determination. She has a beautiful Bouquet of grandchildren that have diverse beauty any grand parent would be proud to display such gems! A friend and companion, an anchor for her was her boyfriend Will! These were her treasures! They will continue her legacy now, brightening the world perpetually because of Lori's influence. Because of her deep love and devotion. She taught them to love! The world will bloom through them now because of her!!

Lori was loved, more than she knows, memories of her are locked in the keepsake chest of my heart! She showed patience when I had none! She showed perseverance when I was done! She smiled when the world was sad! She showed empathy for those who like her battled the rapids.

Now, it is my hope that the Lord heard her distraught prayer when she cried to Him confessing her sin and depravity! I have the central peace that Lori is at rest, at peace, living in her new body that the Lord promises and walking the streets of Gold with his hand in hers awaiting the rest of us to join her!

It is us now who suffer! We suffer because her encouragement and her smile and her love will no long flood up around us in support!

We have truly lost a treasure, a friend, a sister and mother and grandmother! Let us always keep her in our heart till we see her again!

*Bless the Lord oh my soul and all that is within me, bless the Lord!
Thank you for my friend Lord! Thank you for your great gift of Lori!!!*

“ Lori will truly be missed at one time we were neighbors and Mia watched the children while Bill and Lori had a night out. We always remained friends and would talk whenever we saw each other. She was definitely one of a kind and she loved her family.

“ I have missed Lori so much through these past few yrs. Talking to her for hours on the phone. I was so happy when Bill brought her home for me to meet. I loved her instantly. She and Bill would come and play with my kids for hours. There was always alot of laughter when they were around and you were sure to have a good time. We were all pretty sad when they had to move. Lori was like a sister to me and a best friend. I cherish all of the memories with her and she has always had a place in my heart💕

“ I will never forget all the fun times as children (the 5 of us).
Crabbing from the Chestertown bridge.(Catching crabs) we were so little. We caught a bushel that day. Lori was just about 8 or 9. We got mooned that day. We have laughed about that till this day.
Walking to betterton. Going after spring water and finding that soda machine. We said heck with the water. We wanted soda's. Lol.
Making french fries before our parents got home from work. Till there was no more potatoes in the garden. LMAO. All the fun times we had when our children were little. I didn't get to tell you how much I loved you. I LOVE LORI VERY MUCH.
