“ I fondly remember Lucille from the Pizza Hut days. She was always so kind and sweet and had a smile for everyone. I am sad for your family, but wonderful memories will remain with you.

“ A little over a year ago Pop went to join the Lord and our families spirits. Mom went to join him the other day. I can see them now sitting on the Beach in Casey Key, Florida. I know it was their "Happy Place". I can honestly say that they were one of the happiest couples I ever knew. They weren't wealthy financially but when it comes to happiness they were billionaires. They took great pride in making the people around them as happy as they were. And Greg and I were the beneficiaries of that mentality. In my warped sense of grief I tried to think of a time they actually got mad at something or someone. It took me awhile but I got it! Trips from North Jersey to Mom Mom's in Barnegat Light. Greg and I would divide the back seat in half and argue where the boundary was. Putin and Zelenski had nothing on us. It was all out nuclear warfare. Pop driving eyes forward, Mom yelling if we don't quit it were turning around. Greg and I yelling it was all the other guys fault. We never turned around. Pop had fishing to do and Mom had friends waiting on the beach. Now their all together again doing what they loved with all the people they loved for the rest of eternity. At this point all we can do is thank them for providing us with the tools to be happy like they were.
