“ Sure will miss the phone calls laughing about what we got away with in high school days, and better yet, what we didn't. There are truck stories, girl stories, farm stories, bike stories, neighborhood stories, and stories that defy classification. The possibility that you'll get back together with old friends and pick up where you left off keeps that chapter of your life open; keeps the story going. With Matt's passing, that chapter is now closed and the story more modest and a touch more sad.

He always mentioned his good fortune to have family that pursued his welfare perhaps more than he himself did. My sincerest condolences to Digger and Carol, Matt's brothers, and of course Matt's family. Your loss is great.
