“ *Vernon,
There are no words that can assuage the difficult feelings that you are suffering just now. Mourning isn't about how a persons death makes you feel. It is about that persons life and how you carry forward with those memories. I recall reading a statement attributed to Percicles "What you leave behind is not what is engraved in stone monuments, but what is woven into the lives of others." There is just no question about the quilt of love that Norma around the entire Plack family. Perhaps it will be sufficient to sustain you moving forward.*

We are so sorry to hear of your loss. We were neighbors in Hollinswood who lived three doors from the Duffy family. Norma was a very devoted wife and mother and a sweet person. She always seemed happy with her life. Please know that you are in our prayers and thoughts. With deepest sympathy, Bud and Bernie Mathews
