“ I am heartbroken by Norma’s death and grateful for her vibrant life. Norma’s friendship was a blessing to me and my late husband, Birch. We treasured evenings at Creek Bend Farm— casual dinners, birthday celebrations, and Christmas feasts with laurels & wreaths dressing up her already be-jeweled home. Norma’s home was a mirror image of herself— elegant, gracious, comfortable, and comforting.

Norma was attentive and generous, a good listener, and unafraid to share her own sorrows and secrets. She believed, like Emily Dickinson, that her friends were her estate. And, she said, “When I meet cantankerous people, I ask God to show me this person’s heart.” She loved the Psalms because, she said, “You can lose yourself in them;” Gershwin and Tchaikovsky; Longfellow’s The Wreck of Hesperus; Walter Benton’s poetic “I have looked upon you for so long and with so much love that strangers can see you in my face;” her 19th century Dutch art; dogs Cookie and Julie “who knew all my secrets;” singing harmony with Birch; her Aunt Madeleine who taught her life’s grace notes; all things Italian; and, of course her children, those lost and saved.

As she always signed off her notes to me, “molto amore” dear friend.

“ Oh my gosh I was so, so sorry to read of Norma's passing. Regrettably I have not been by to see her in quite awhile but she and my dad once had a special friendship and I was very blessed to continue that friendship with her. What a kind and special lady she was! I am so very sorry for your loss and I will always have such fond memories of Norma - especially how she had her drivers seat SO far back in her old Jaguar - I teased her that she was driving while laying down! Oh - and those Budweiser clydesdales and how she greeted everyone like a queen when folks arrived at her stables to see them! May treasured memories bring you comfort.
