“ I knew Trisha as a student at Centreville Middle School. She is someone I remember as a kind soul. The most memorable thing she did was show up at CMS several years later to see me and tell me that she was graduating from Chesapeake College. It is always so special when a former student comes back to visit and share good news.

Prayers and peace to her family.

“ Trish, this wasn't supposed to happen! We were supposed to do lunch and catch up, which I'm sure would have been a lot of lunch dates. Unfortunately for me, I hadn't kept up on your recent journey (just a few posts here and there), and didn't realize things were this bad; needless to say I'm going to have so many regrets. I love you girl and will miss you dearly!! You were a very dear friend to so many, I know you will sorely be missed by all who knew you. RIP Sweetheart and fly high with the angels.

In reading the posts from today and those of yesterday, you were very special to a lot of people including your close friends; my heart goes out to all of them, including Troy. There is so much I want to say to you, so much for us to catch up on, but won't be able to now. I could sit here for hours typing what I wanted to say, but it won't bring you back so I could hug you one last time.

To your husband, your Dad, your siblings and the rest of your family and of course, friends, you all are in my thoughts and prayers. Sending much love and hugs to all. Share your memories of Trish and hold them close to your heart and I pray they will help comfort you through this very difficult time.

If you are reading this, please don't be like me and procrastinate getting together with someone you care about, that one day may be too late. Much love, Kim Crew-Severson
