Great video. I see faces I haven't seen in a long while. Ronnie truly loved fishing, probably more than anything else. I remember when Ronnie was young, he still had a boat. Always on the river with his speed boat, now on the big water with his big boat. I couldn't believe when he went to New Jersey and bought that big boat and drove it all the way back to Maryland and up the bay to Crisfield and ran into a storm on the way there. I remember when Ronnie was young and lived in Boonsboro with his mom and rode those horses. He could ride a horse bareback better than some with a saddle. Even when the horse reared up, he stayed on and rode like Roy Rodgers. He came to our house many times over the years for Thanksgiving. The whole family had a lot of good times with all the family get togethers. Ronnie will sorely be missed by all who new him. R.I.P. Ronnie, we know you are having fun now.
