“ Still cant believe your really gone. Just saw you a week ago and even though i knew it was coming, i guess a part of me was hoping you would hold on a little while longer. But deep down inside i knew when i came to see you that it was going to be the last time that i would see your face, touch your hand, and hear your voice. It doesn't really feel real yet. I guess because i dont want it to be real. All i keep thinking about is when we lived together. All those nights i would come home from work with a rental movie and we would sit down at your computer; just you, me and bubby. Im gonna miss our movie nights. Im gonna miss how we used to pick on each other. Im gonna miss your dinners. Especially my favorites, like your meatloaf stuffed with velveeta cheese, or your macaroni salad. Boy i would tear that stuff up. But what im gonna miss the most is your advice, kind heart, and words of wisdom. Cause you always knew the right words to say to cheer me up. No matter what i was going through you would always get me back on the right track. You were strong, kind hearted and wise. Your shoes are one's that will be impossible to fill. If i would have known 3 years ago when you moved out that it would be the last time i would see you before you got sick i would have made sure to come and visit you more. I would have called you on the phone more often. I would have made sure you knew that i cherished our time together and that no one could ever take your place in my heart. It's going to be hard without you, but im glad your no longer in pain. Im glad your with your boys. Cause i know you've been missing them terribly. And i know i'll see you again some day(hopefully not any time soon) And when that day comes, the hole that you left when you passed will be gone. I love you with all my heart Aunt Sue and i will never forget you

“ Aunt Sue,
I love you and I miss you more than I can describe in words. I am going to miss the sound of your voice, I am going to miss your advice, and more importantly I am going to miss the unconditional love that you had for me. I wish that there were a way that I could call on my phone and talk to you now that you have passed, but we both know that is impossible. The only question that I have is why didn't you tell me that you were sick? You knew that your time was short and I missed the signs. Why didn't you tell me? I wouldn't have told anyone. Aunt Sue, you know that I have always loved you. Why didn't you tell me that you were sick? You will be in my heart for eternity. I love you. Rest In Peace, Aunt Sue. I can't wait to see you again.
