“ Hello MomMom, thought I might see you here.
The clock of life is wound just once, no one has the foresight to know just when the hands of time will slow and stop. Alex lived life with integrity, love, kindness, laughter, and giving. He toiled with determination; learned with a passion from each of life's challenges, without regret and bitterness, taking and giving a better understanding of life, a lesson learned not only for yesterday, but to help us all to carry on today and tomorrow.
Now this is the path we all need to travel to accomplish our needs and desires for the new year ahead.
We are never alone in this life. Remember always that Alex is up there doing his duty still, egging some on, encouraging others where needed, and just plain laughing at the rest of us!
He and all those that are waiting patiently for Jesus to return, to a nation having no ruler except God, and no authority but that of love.###imported-begin##Aunt Bonnie###imported-end##

“ Kelly and family,
I was searching for Katelin on facebook and came upon this accidentally. This breaks my heart for you. I know life has been rough a few times, but I wanted you to know that you have always held a good place in my heart and I believe you deserve the good life has to offer. Please know that you are in my thoughts.

Sincerely,

April###imported-begin##April Hobson###imported-end##

“ Ron & Kelly. I am so sorry for your loss. You are in my thought and prayers.
My heart breaks for you both. I never had the pleasure of meeting Alex but from the post and things that I have read he was a very special young man.
No parent should have to bury their child but sometimes God needs a special angel. A friends daughter once told me "When a soldier passes away, That means someone needed a Guardian Angel."###imported-begin##Charlene Heck ...Tennessee##imported-end##

“ Kelly, You lost your little boy, and no one can ever know how you feel. You looked so poised and beautiful the day of the funeral, I know he is so proud of you. Cry a river, and than cry another one until the tears wipe away the pain and you can think of him and only feel joy. Have faith that this will happen. In the mean time, use your community. We all love you.##imported-begin##Dana L. De Maso##imported-end##

“ Hi Kelly and Family. I'm sending my condolences. I am so sorry to hear of Alex's passing, and I will keep you in my prayers. Soon, there will be a time when God "will wipe out every tear from our eyes, and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore." - Revelation 21:4. There will also be a time when "all those in the memorial tombs will....come out." - John 5:28, 29. And, "No resident will say: 'I am sick.'" - Isaiah 33:24. These things are promised by God, and in the meantime, he can and will help you during your time of loss. This is good news and gives us a sure hope. Please take care. Kelly, I hope to see you soon.###imported-begin###DeNene M. Stewart###imported-end##

“ Our condolences and prayers to the grandson of brother Norman & Betty. May God Bless & heal the friends & family of this young man named 'Alex', whom God, in his wisdom, has seen fit to take home with him. I noticed that the picture album is empty, so I am asking all his friends to please add a picture for the rest of us to enjoy. Something that only you have seen so far. The video is lovely, thanks Kelly for all the wonderful pictures you provided, some of which I have already seen hanging on my mothers walls & in her albums, as well as at Norman & Betty's. Love is sharing and caring. Love to all!##imported-begin##Larry & Bonnie Willey##imported-end##

“ Alex was an amazing person who filled my life with joy he was a very great friend who always knew how to cheer anyone up if they were feeling down. Everyone who knew alex could tell you that he's a very easy to get along with and easy to talk to about anything. He was there for me through a lot rather if I had just gone through a messy break up with an old bf..he was the one person that understood me..I will always keep him close in my heart. May you rest in peace alex I will see you again one day. I love you bestie##imported-begin##shannen lane##imported-end##

“ Kelly and family, I am so sorry to hear of Alex's passing. He was such a joyous fellow. I wrote something awhile ago that I shared with you. One of the verses said " To appreciate the radiance of sunshine, You have to find some glory in the rain". I know this is a terribly sad time for your family. I will always remember Alex as that "radiance of sunshine" in our neighborhood. You are in my prayers.##imported-begin##Kathy Abey##imported-end##

“ Alex your bright smile and kind heart touched a lot of people, some you never even met. When trying to understand why people are taken from us before "their time" I remember that our time is not always God's time. And I reflect on the words of his poem:

*"A Reason A Season and A Lifetime" © author unknown.
People always come into you life for a reason, a season and a lifetime. When you figure out which it is, you know exactly what to do.*

When someone is in your life for a REASON, it is usually to meet a need you have expressed outwardly or inwardly. They have come to assist you through a difficulty, or to provide you with guidance and support, to aid you physically, emotionally, or even spiritually. They may seem like a Godsend to you, and they are. They are there for a reason, you need them to be.

Then, without any wrong doing on your part or at an inconvenient time, this person will say or do something to bring the relationship to an end. Sometimes they die, Sometimes they just walk away. Sometimes they act up or out and force you to take a stand. What we must realize is that our need has been met, our desire fulfilled; their work is done. The prayer you sent up has been answered and it is now time to move on.

ALEX - YOU TRULY DID HAVE A REASON (PURPOSE) IN THE LIVES OF YOUR FRIENDS AND YOU WILL BE MISSED BUT NEVER FORGOTTEN...##imported-begin##Liz Dagen Doron##imported-end##

“ We have been praying, & we will continue to pray to God, Jesus, The Holy Spirit, all the Guardian Angels, & all the Hosts of Heaven to comfort you all, and to get you through this rough situation. Please remember Alex as he was just 2 months ago, happy, strong, & filled with life. I am sure that is what he would want for you all. Keep him close through pictures, remembering the good times together, & please continue to talk about him to one another, you will not forget him, but you will remember him with pride and joy. It takes time. You will never forget Alex, and that is good, so it will be better if everyone helps each other by talking about him as needed. This will greatly help to keep him alive in your heart. This & prayer has helped me many times. Now I can think about Daddy, mommom & poppop, Grandmom & Granddaddy, all my aunts , uncles, & cousins that are with Jesus, and actually smile when I think of them the way they were and the things we did together. Those are precious, & often happy, memories. This will come to you too, it just takes time. God needed Alex for a reason, but he is still there for us all. We can still have him with us, try smiling when you think of him, I do. He was much younger the last time I saw him, and maybe that helps me in remembering the cute things he said & did. I see Nick often, and he is always a joy to talk with. God bless and keep us all.##imported-begin##Bonnie Willey##imported-end##

“ I can't really seem to find the words that I want to say, nothing is nearly profound enough. We always had that deal, that I was always allowed to be right and you were always allowed to win. They balanced each other out and somehow, you always found a way to always be right, and in that process, I could never lose. All of my important memories are sprinkled with the ridiculousness that could only be Alex. Remember before I went to PSU, when I stole your cat (the one with the build-a-bear ribbon you stole from me)? He still smells like you so I'm sorry to tell you love, but that means you used WAY too much. HAHA we could smell you from across the high school. I'm scared to go to D.C. now after the time security missed all 7 knives in your pockets on 4th of July. That was hilarious. Everything was hilarious, but when it was just the two of us, everything was deep, and you were someone new. You have changed my life impermeably and forever (something I've been saying for years, so you better not forget it). My thoughts and prayers are with your family through this turbulent time but a very big piece of my heart is up with you. Love you always, so much more than I ever let you know. “ its hard to sum up or even put to words how much Alex will be missed. He touched the lives of so many. We could always count on him for a fun time, a good laugh, and a good hug. He got along with everyone.He was such an amazing person inside and out. His smile was so contageous.I can remember how if he saw one of us was sad, he'd make a goofy face at us, or say something hilarious. I know he wouldn't want us to be sad because he's gone, but rather, happy he's no longer in pain. He means so much to me, and will never be forgotten.
